Interesting (and busy) year

- Working from home
- Virtual meetings
- Business as usual

On a personal level:

- Haven't travelled since January
- Seen a lot of my grankids
- Miss my Friends

Revisiting the Mountain

- ◆ APL – the Tool of Thought
- ◆ - and the mountain

Revisiting the Mountain

- Many of our paying customers are professional software developers with commercial application
- and we still insists that it be possible for knowledgeable people with good ideas to develop applications in APL

Revisiting the Mountain

- There is a major paradigm shift right now
- Cloud deployment and Browser UI are winning
- The Tool Chains are not really developed yet

Revisiting the Mountain

- There is a lot of areas that require renewed attention
 - UI
 - Cross platform development
 - Deployment
 - Integration

Teaching and Documentation

- Before:
 - APL was taught at work
 - Mentor – Apprentice
 - Physical courses
- Today:
 - Everybody looks to the net for inspiration, webcasts, documentation and help

Teaching and Documentation

- ◆ We are working hard at:
 - ◆ Producing on-line material and making it widely available
 - ◆ Making our website more inviting and informative for newcomers
 - ◆ Enhancing the chances of coming across APL as a choice for complex solutions
 - ◆ Making our documentation better suited for on-line searching and digestion

Summary

- ◆ So yes – we are still busy
- ◆ We look forward to telling you about it
- ◆ We would have liked to share a good meal and/or a beer with you – but sadly not this year

Summary

- We hope you will enjoy these two sessions
- Please give us feedback on the format in case we chose to do something similar in the future 😊
- And now – over to Morten.
